Harman Kardon shows off a pair of wireless speakers, a soundbar and headphones at IFA 2013-- the Esquire and Onyx wireless speakers, the Sabre SB 35 soundbar and the Soho headphones.

Reportedly aimed at the "stylish traveler," the Esquire speaker acts as a teleconferencing system as well as a loudspeaker. It features "custom tuned" microphones armed with noise-cancellation technology for hands-free conference calls, as well as dual drivers and built-in bass port for quality sound.

It also provides a charger for up to 3 devices via USB hub, with a rechargeable battery promising up to 10 hours of use.

Meanwhile the Onyx features a distinctive leather-wrapped circular design, and packs 4 amplification channels for a total of 60W RMS of power. It connects to iOS, Android and Windows devices via Bluetooth, NFC, wifi or DLNA, and also provides a 3.5mm jack and USB port for wired connectivity.
