

Graffiti Style for Logitech Speaker

Written by Marco Attard
10. 12. 2014

Logitech announces the Graffiti Fetish edition of the UE Boom portable speaker-- a limited edition featuring a design by British graffiti artist INSA, bringing the number of artist-designed Boom editions to five.

"It's cool to combine my art with a device that brings even more creativity to the world," INSA says. "This collaboration is also a new way of putting my art out there."

The UE Boom is one of the best selling Logitech products, described by the company as a "star performer." Launched back in 2013, it features a cylindrical design with a water- and stain-resistant "acoustic skin," 360-degree sound and up to 15 hours of battery life.

The Graffiti Fetish edition UE Boom should be available in select European markets from December 2014.

Go INSA Designs Limited Edition UE Boom