Apple updates the Solo2 Wireless, Tour2 and Powerbeats2 Wireless headphone lineups with models in blue, yellow and red, part of what the company calls the "Active Collection."

The update involves no hardware or pricing changes, and the Active Collection joins the existing colour option range for each product.

Beats hardware so few changes since Apple took over the company in 2014. So far the headphone maker only launched one new set of headphones (the Solo2 Wireless), as well silver, gold and space gray colour options for better matching with iDevices.
