

Simple Controls for the Home from Busch-Jaeger

Written by Bob Snyder
01. 10. 2014

Busch-Jaeger Elektro GmbH exhibited at IFA Berlin for the first time. Their display centres around Living Space, encompassing more personal space, increased comfort, greater security, improved efficiency and a better quality of life through this exhibitor's solutions for the ideal interconnected home.

For example, Busch-free@home is a simple control system for the home, which made a successful debut at the beginning of this year. It could not be more comfortable: lights, heating, air conditioning, blinds or the door communication system all easily controlled by a smartphone or tablet, directly from the couch or a desk in the office.

This system provides an uncomplicated access to the intelligent home, simple, with intuitive controls and at a reasonable price

Go Busch-Jaeger