

Home Automation Training, Free

Written by Marco Attard
19. 07. 2011

Niko UK offers free courses in installing and programming its Nikobus home automation system, as well as its Niko Home Control electrical installation.

The courses involve a day-long fully interactive experience, providing attendees with the knowledge and tools to program and specify their own lighting and home automation systems.

Interested qualifying installers and electricians are to visit Niko's UK training suite at its Toddington HQ, with courses going on select days in August, September and October.

Go Niko Training