Crestron launches the second generation of media servers-- the ADMS-G2, featuring all the features from the first ADMS together with streaming media from services such as Vudu and Pandora.

Smaller than the first generation AMDS, the ADMS-G2 now allows users to access online services such as Netflix, Vudu, Youtube, Vimeo, Pandora and other digital sources and online content providers.

Built-in WorldSearch handles search functions, showing results (sorted according to relevance or quality) in an easy-to-navigate onscreen menu. Meanwhile the integrated web browser is HDTV optimised, and includes Flash and Silverlight support.
