

URC and iControl Team Up in Smart Home

Written by Marco Attard
16. 04. 2014

Remote control maker URC and connected home developer iControl Networks team up to bring "whole-house automation devices with easy A/V integration to the smart home experience."

The URC-developed devices will OpenHome Partner Program certified, providing compatibility with home automation solutions running on the iControl Converge and Touchstone platforms.

iControl-compatible URC products will include a colour display wand-style remote, an in-wall touchscreen and a single-gang button-only keypad.

"Our mission is to deliver the most advanced, intuitive smart home experience possible," iControl says. "We're thrilled that URC has joined our OpenHome Program to provide customers with innovative total-home control for the utmost ease and efficiency."

URC will unveil the above-mentioned products at the NCTA Cable Show, Los Angeles.

Go iControl and URC Partner to Bring Home Automation Devices to Smart Home