

CEDIA announces the first details of the 2016 Awards scheme-- the 17 categories. The association urges all members to take part, since past finalists and winners not only get a trophy, but also new business.

The CEDIA Awards celebrate technical excellence in design, installation and integration across EMEA. The scheme provides members with an expertise and achievement platform, not to mention media coverage and a spot in the CEDIA Awards Yearbook.

Past awards winners include members from Cyprus, India, Poland, Pakistan, S. Africa and the UK.

“After hosting our most successful Awards to date this year, we are thrilled to release the first details of the CEDIA Awards 2016,” CEDIA EMEA director Wendy Griffiths says. “We have had some fantastic feedback from the winners over the last few years – how important winning a CEDIA Award is to them, the benefits they get off the back of it, and how the entry process is valuable, as it ensures they retain full records for each project they work on. We have already heard several of our members expressing their desire to enter the scheme, so we look forward to receiving these entries.”

The 2016 categories are as follows:

- Best Media Room under £15000
- Best Media Room over £15000
- Best Multiple Scheme for a Property Developer

- Best Integrated Home under £100000
