CEDIA releases the shortlist for the 2016 Awards before the nominees go through the final round of judging later next month. The industry also has a say, since voting for Best Trade Supplier, Best Innovative Product and Best Training Initiative By a Trade Supplier is open for both members and non-members.

“The standard of entries this year has been incredibly high and after receiving a record number of entries, our judges found it incredibly challenging to select the final shortlist,” the association says. “It is great to see such a large number of international projects, with a significant increase in applications from India and S. Africa. The entries have highlighted that our members are continuing to push themselves by embracing new technology and finding innovative and exciting ways to ensure they always deliver on the client’s brief.”

The awards shortlist is as follows:
