

CEDIA launches an exclusive online community-- one the organisation describes as another touchpoint for members wanting to develop and sustain connections within the industry.

The CEDIA Community platform provides a space to connect with peers across both one's region and across the globe to discuss hot topics, share ideas with industry experts and thought leaders, and extend the conversation after in-person events. It also offers access to downloadable resources.

"So many CEDIA members share the same story of making a connection with someone in the industry who became a critical part of their success," CEDIA CEO Vin Bruno says. "We love to hear these stories, and my own career has been significantly shaped by the people I have met and learned from along the way. We are thrilled to be able to offer CEDIA members another avenue to connect with one another year-round."

If you're a CEDIA member should have received a welcome email walking you through the process of setting up a profile and adjusting personal settings.

Go CEDIA Community