

New Members for HDBaseT Alliance

Written by Marco Attard
01. 03. 2011

The HDBaseT Alliance increases its membership roster, with 23 companies joining the cross-industry association.

With LG, Samsung, Sony and Valens as founding members (and the likes of Crestron, Gefen, Elka and CWIN as Adopter members, amongst others), the alliance plans to push its HDBaset standard further as the installer and consumer's first choice for connectivity.

HDBaseT delivers the 5Play feature set-- HD video, audio, internet, power (100W) and controls-- using standard 100m Cat5e/6 cable with RJ-45 connectors.

The alliance is currently also preparing its Compliance Program, as well as formulating a logo usage and licensing program.

Go HDBaseT Alliance Increases Membership