

Invision UK Buys Anthem AV

Written by Marco Attard
22. 07. 2015

Invision UK acquires the business of Anthem AV Solutions Limited, the East Sussex-based specialist distributor of home cinema system. Further financial details of the deal are not available.

Founded in 2008 by Alan Roser, Anthem AV has a portfolio of home cinema brands including the likes of Paradigm, Anthem, SIM2, Trinnov, DVDO and Screen Innovations.

Roser passed away last March following a short battle with cancer.

Invision UK says Anthem AV will operate as a standalone division from its East Essex offices and showroom.

“This investment will allow Anthem AV Solutions to retain their focus on the supply of high-end home cinema products to both professional installers and specialist AV retailers, and to continue to expand, with the support of Invision UK,” the distributor says. “With UHD displays, 4K streaming TV and Dolby Atmos already heading into UK living rooms, this an exciting time to be in the high-end home a business.”

Go Invision UK Announce Acquisition of Anthem AV Solutions