Written by Marco Attard
05. 04. 2017

August Home announces the Smart Lock Pro (Z-Wave) at the International Security Conference (ISC West 2017)-- a smart lock built for the home installation channel.

The launch comes as August joins the Z-Wave Alliance, expanding the interoperability of the company's products with offerings from other vendors. This allows installers to offer the Smart Lock Pro as part of a complete smart home solution, and as such it is available exclusively for the custom installation channel.

Apart from the addition of Z-Wave connectivity, Smart Lock Pro features the same capabilities of August smart locks, including smartphone-based keys, virtual keys for guests, and lock use tracking via 24/7 activity log. It also pairs easily with other August products, such as the Smart Keypad and Doorbell Cam.

“We’re fully committed to supporting the professional channel and believe in offering products that deliver interoperability and choice for both dealers and their customers," August says. “We are also looking at joining the ZigBee Alliance and other standards’ organizations that support the professional channel. This supports our mission to deliver market-leading products that integrate with the security systems and home automation platforms dealers and integrators are installing every day to help them grow their business.”

Go August Home Announces Z-Wave Smart Lock for the Professional Channel